CAVEAT

Police data examined in this report is drawn from a dynamic operational database and is subject to change as new information is continually recorded. It is only as accurate as the information contained in the databases at the time that it is sourced. Statistics from provisional data are counted differently than official statistics and should not be compared.

Key Findings

Analysis of calls to Police was conducted in relation to events occurring within Wellington City from January 2008 to December 2012. During that time, within this area, Police received 38,929 calls for types of events that are typically related to alcohol (approximately 7,700 per year).

The following has been identified:

- The yearly first level hotspot maps over the wider Wellington area show alcohol related calls for service generally covering the local shopping centres and malls of the suburbs. A small proportion of the hotspot maps also indicate likely repeat domestic violence at residential locations. The greatest proportion of the calls for service is located in Wellington City.
- The hotspot locations in Wellington city cover the suburbs of Te Aro, Pipitea, Mt Cook, Newtown and Kilbirnie in the yearly second level hotspot map. The most significant hotspot locations are located in Wellington City with a concentration in the Te Aro Suburb.
- Total number of alcohol-related calls for service has remained relatively steady over 2008-2012 period. However, there is a slight upward trend in alcohol-related calls for service. The Rugby world cup and above average weekly disorder and liquor offences during the Rugby Sevens and University Orientation weeks in February and March 2011 have likely contributed to this.

Police would like to strengthen partnerships with the Wellington City Territorial Local Authority to develop solutions that will reduce the demand currently placed on police resources. This can be achieved by:

- 3.00am closing for on-licence premises in the entertainment precinct and a Midnight closing time for on-licence premises outside the entertainment precinct and in the suburbs. A 3.00am closing time for the entertainment precinct acknowledges a community desire for a late night entertainment area while allowing harm to be minimised.
- A one-way door policy from 1.00am for on-licence premises in the entertainment precinct. Based on national and international research, there is strong evidence that a one-way door policy is an effective part of an overall alcohol harm reduction strategy.
- Maximum trading hours of 7.00am to 9.00pm for off-licence outlets. By not allowing off licences to trade late at night, it reduces the ability of people to drink alcohol immediately in an uncontrolled environment for the sole purpose of getting intoxicated.

Introduction

1. The operating strategy for New Zealand Police to 2015 is Prevention First. The strategy is aimed at preventing crime before it happens using targeted policing, partnerships, and focusing on the drivers of crime.
2. The new Sale and Supply of Alcohol Act 2012 states that when developing a draft or provisional Local Alcohol Policy, a Territorial Authority must consider a range of factors set out in the Act, including the nature and severity of the alcohol-related problems arising in the district<sup>1</sup>. To that end, Police (along with Licensing Inspectors and Medical Officers of Health) must make reasonable efforts to give the Territorial Authority any relevant information they may hold<sup>2</sup>.
3. This report analyses calls made by the public to police. In each case the Police employee who takes the call, categorises the incident based on what the caller tells them into basic event types such as violence, disorder, etc. These calls are then recorded in the Police Communications and Resource Deployment database (CARD). An event can be re-categorised into different types throughout the life of a call, so for the purposes of this analysis, event types are considered at the time of call closure.
4. Although CARD does not hold information on whether alcohol was consumed by the offender or by the victim, certain types of events are typically considered to be related to alcohol. These are:

Grievous Assaults	Sexual Affronts	Disorder
Serious Assaults	Abduction For Sex	Breach Of The Peace
Minor Assaults	Sexual Attacks	Obstructing/Hindering/Resisting
Intimidation/Threats	Rape	Unlawful Assembly
Crimes Against Personal Privacy	Domestic Dispute	Breach Of Local Council Liquor Ban
Drunk Custody/Detox Centre	Domestic Violence	Sale of Liquor offences (old Act)
Drunk Home	(Sale and Supply of Alcohol offences – new Act)

5. The calls analysed in this report were made between 1 January 2008 and 31 December 2012 and fall into the categories listed above. They are presented visually in the attached maps by individual years. In the future, yearly updates will be provided. The calls do not include those initiated by Police (ie, officer-discovered contact with the Communications Centre) and exclude duplicate calls.
6. In this analysis, the calls to Police were spatially analysed using a hotspotting technique called Gi*. The Gi* technique aggregates events to a grid, the size of which depends on the area of analysis. The totals within each grid square are then compared to each other across the entire study area.
7. Gi* compares local averages with global averages, identifying those areas where the local averages (eg, concentrations of crime) are significantly different from the global averages (ie, in comparison to what is generally observed across the whole study area).
8. Gi* identifies if the local pattern of crime is different from what is generally observed across the whole study area, and produces a level of significance. The areas identified as not significant are those where clustering would likely have occurred due to chance and not due to the location itself.

9. As Gi* adds statistical significance to hotspot analysis, it shows which hotspots are significant, and alerts to something unusual occurring at specific locations.
10. Hotspots identified as 99.9% significant using the Gi* technique are most likely to be locations that are generators, attractors, or enablers of crime. Focusing on these locations and determining the underlying causes of crime happening there is likely to reduce the level of crime across the overall study area.
11. The Appendix includes:
  - Map one – first level hotspots; Gi* analysis of alcohol-related events in the given year for the entire Territorial Authority.
  - Map two – second level hotspots; Gi* analysis of alcohol-related events that occurred only in those locations that were identified as 90% significant hotspots from map one. If multiple second level hotspots are present, multiple maps are provided.
  - Data clocks – time distribution of events that occurred within the second-level hotspots, showing when those events took place.
  - Map of licensed premises – the data (current as at 2011) was sourced from the Local Licensing Authority and provided to Police by Massey University in May 2013. The displayed licensed premises are only of those types that Massey University consider to contribute to alcohol-related harm; these are supermarkets, bottle stores, grocery stores, night clubs, and taverns. The map shows the distribution and number of on-licensed and off-licensed premises. As the data relates to 2011, there may have been some changes to the licensed premises since that time.

Analysis

12. The yearly first level hotspot maps over the wider Wellington area show alcohol related calls for service generally covering the local shopping centres and malls of the suburbs. These areas will have a concentration of locations which encourage or facilitate alcohol consumption. These locations may include parks and car parks used by youths and adults to drink in, late night takeaways, bars and alcohol outlets. A small proportion of the hotspot maps also indicate likely repeat domestic violence at residential locations. The greatest proportion of the calls for service is located in Wellington City.
13. The hotspot locations in Wellington city cover the suburbs of Te Aro, Pipitea, Mt Cook, Newtown and Kilbirnie in the yearly second level hotspot map. The most significant hotspot locations are located in Wellington City with a concentration in the Te Aro Suburb. Te Aro sits at the southern end of what is considered the Wellington CBD. It covers Manners Street, Cuba Street, Vivian Street, and Courtenay Place. Wellingtons cultural and nightlife venues concentrate in this area, making the Te Aro area one of the largest entertainment destinations in New Zealand.
14. Total number of alcohol-related calls for service has remained relatively steady over 2008-2012 period. The average number of alcohol related events recorded over the five years is 7786. The variation of the highest (n=8029) and lowest (n=7542) number against the average is 3%. However, combining the 2008 - 2009 alcohol-related calls and the 2011 - 2012 numbers shows a slight upward trend in alcohol-related calls for service (n=211). The Rugby world cup and above average weekly disorder and liquor offences during the Rugby Sevens and University Orientation weeks in February and March 2011 have likely contributed to this.

Year	Alcohol-related events
2008	7,830
2009	7,542
2010	7,763
2011	8,029
2012	7,765
Total	38,929

Possible Prevention Measures

---

15. The key provisions of the recommendations from Wellington Police are:

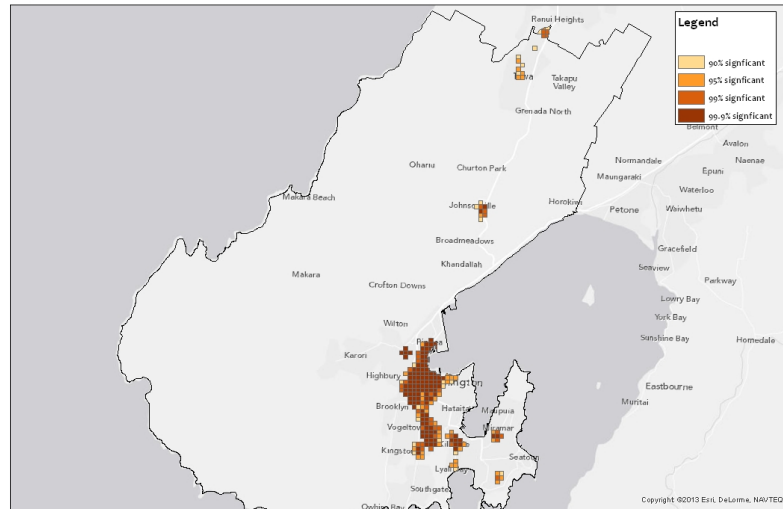

- 3.00am closing for on-licence premises in the entertainment precinct and a Midnight closing time for on-licence premises outside the entertainment precinct and in the suburbs. The rationale for this view is that both international and domestic evidence supports the proposition that the longer licensed premises are open, the more alcohol-related harm can be attributed to them. A 3.00am closing time for the entertainment precinct acknowledges a community desire for a late night entertainment area while allowing harm to be minimised.
- A one-way door policy from 1.00am for on-licence premises in the entertainment precinct. A New South Wales study identified a 50% reduction in night time crime and a 26% reduction in alcohol related emergency admissions to hospital with a one way door policy in place. Based on national and international research, there is strong evidence that a one-way door policy is an effective part of an overall alcohol harm reduction strategy.
- Maximum trading hours of 7.00am to 9.00pm for off-licence outlets. Reducing the hours that takeaway alcohol can be purchased will impact on the access and availability of alcohol. By not allowing off licences to trade late at night, it reduces the ability of people to drink alcohol immediately in an uncontrolled environment for the sole purpose of getting intoxicated.
